The Book of Emil

There had once been a fair land where they believed in the mantra of true justice and where it was said that they lived in peace and harmony with all of those who had come from the far stars in the Southern Skies

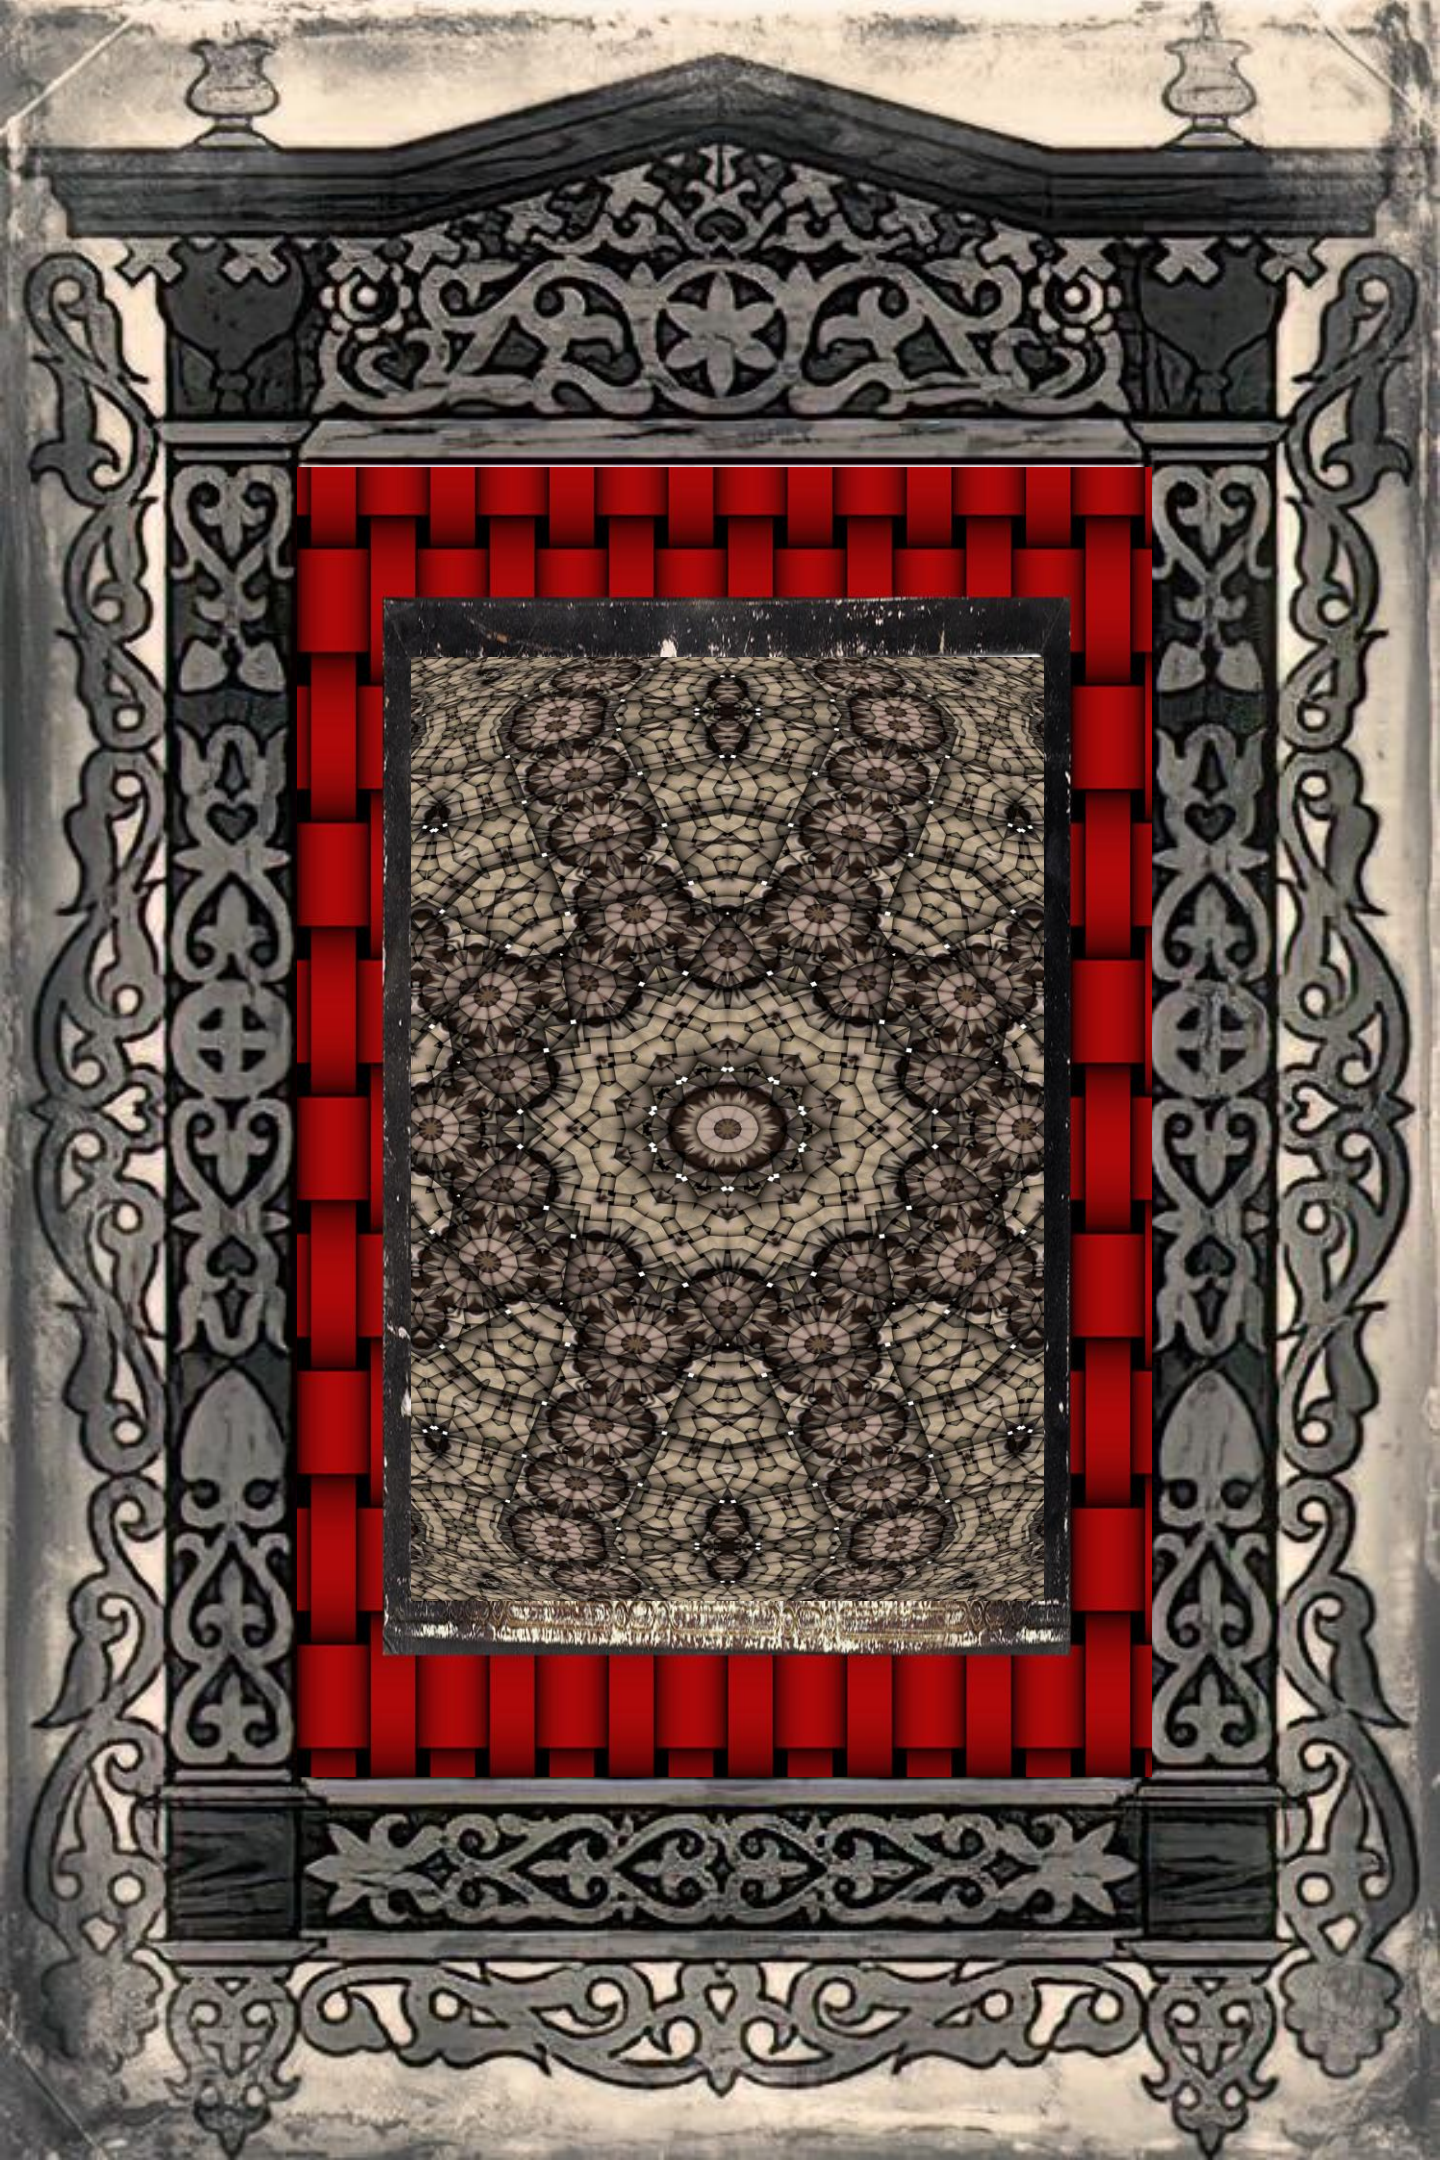
as they had accepted the knowledge of great magic in exchange for allowing the Star Peoples refugee on their world.



For thousands of years the world saw great wonders as the Star People were generous with sharing the core of their ability to master the elements of the universe and many of the first humans were schooled in their ways.

It has been passed down in legend that the Star People came seeking a new home from an ancient war that destroyed their own world.

Their ways were strange but they processed
great mastery
of the universe and nature as I said they

willing to share with our elders.
They warned that with great power come even more need for responsibility to use these for the greater good and not abuse them for personal gain or power over the meek.

This is why not everyone was selected to be trained in the ways of the Star People. Those who were selected had to prevail many trials and tests prove their worth and stability.

My elders were of the chosen and in time would became great masters.

As a youngling,
I can still remember sitting besides the great evening fires that protected our village from the evil ones who lurked in the shadows of the night seeking any who might be foolish enough to venture off into the darkness of bleak darkness as this was the time before the moon came to rest in the night time skies to protect us

Even though it's light was less powerful than the day light; it did offered us some level of protection from the sharp claws of the night

raiders who came forth from their deep underground
lairs were they hid from the power rays of the justice of light and who prowled the earth seeking human food to feed themselves. For now over a thousand years, they have be a plights upon humanity and had we not our elders been schooled in the ways of the Star People;

All of humanity might have perished as had so many of the Star People when the advance horde of these demons first arrived from the Southern

Lands.
In the many endless years of the Great War Age, many of our dearest fathers and brothers who fought besides our friends (The Star People) were lost to the lustful fangs of These night demons.

As a parting gift, the Star People gave us our bright, shinny moon as a convent that

We are not alone or forgotten and that someday,
they will return
with a great army and finally lay waste

the vast underground
lairs of these night beasts.
This is what was recorded and every day we offer up

prayers that our day of deliverance will be today!
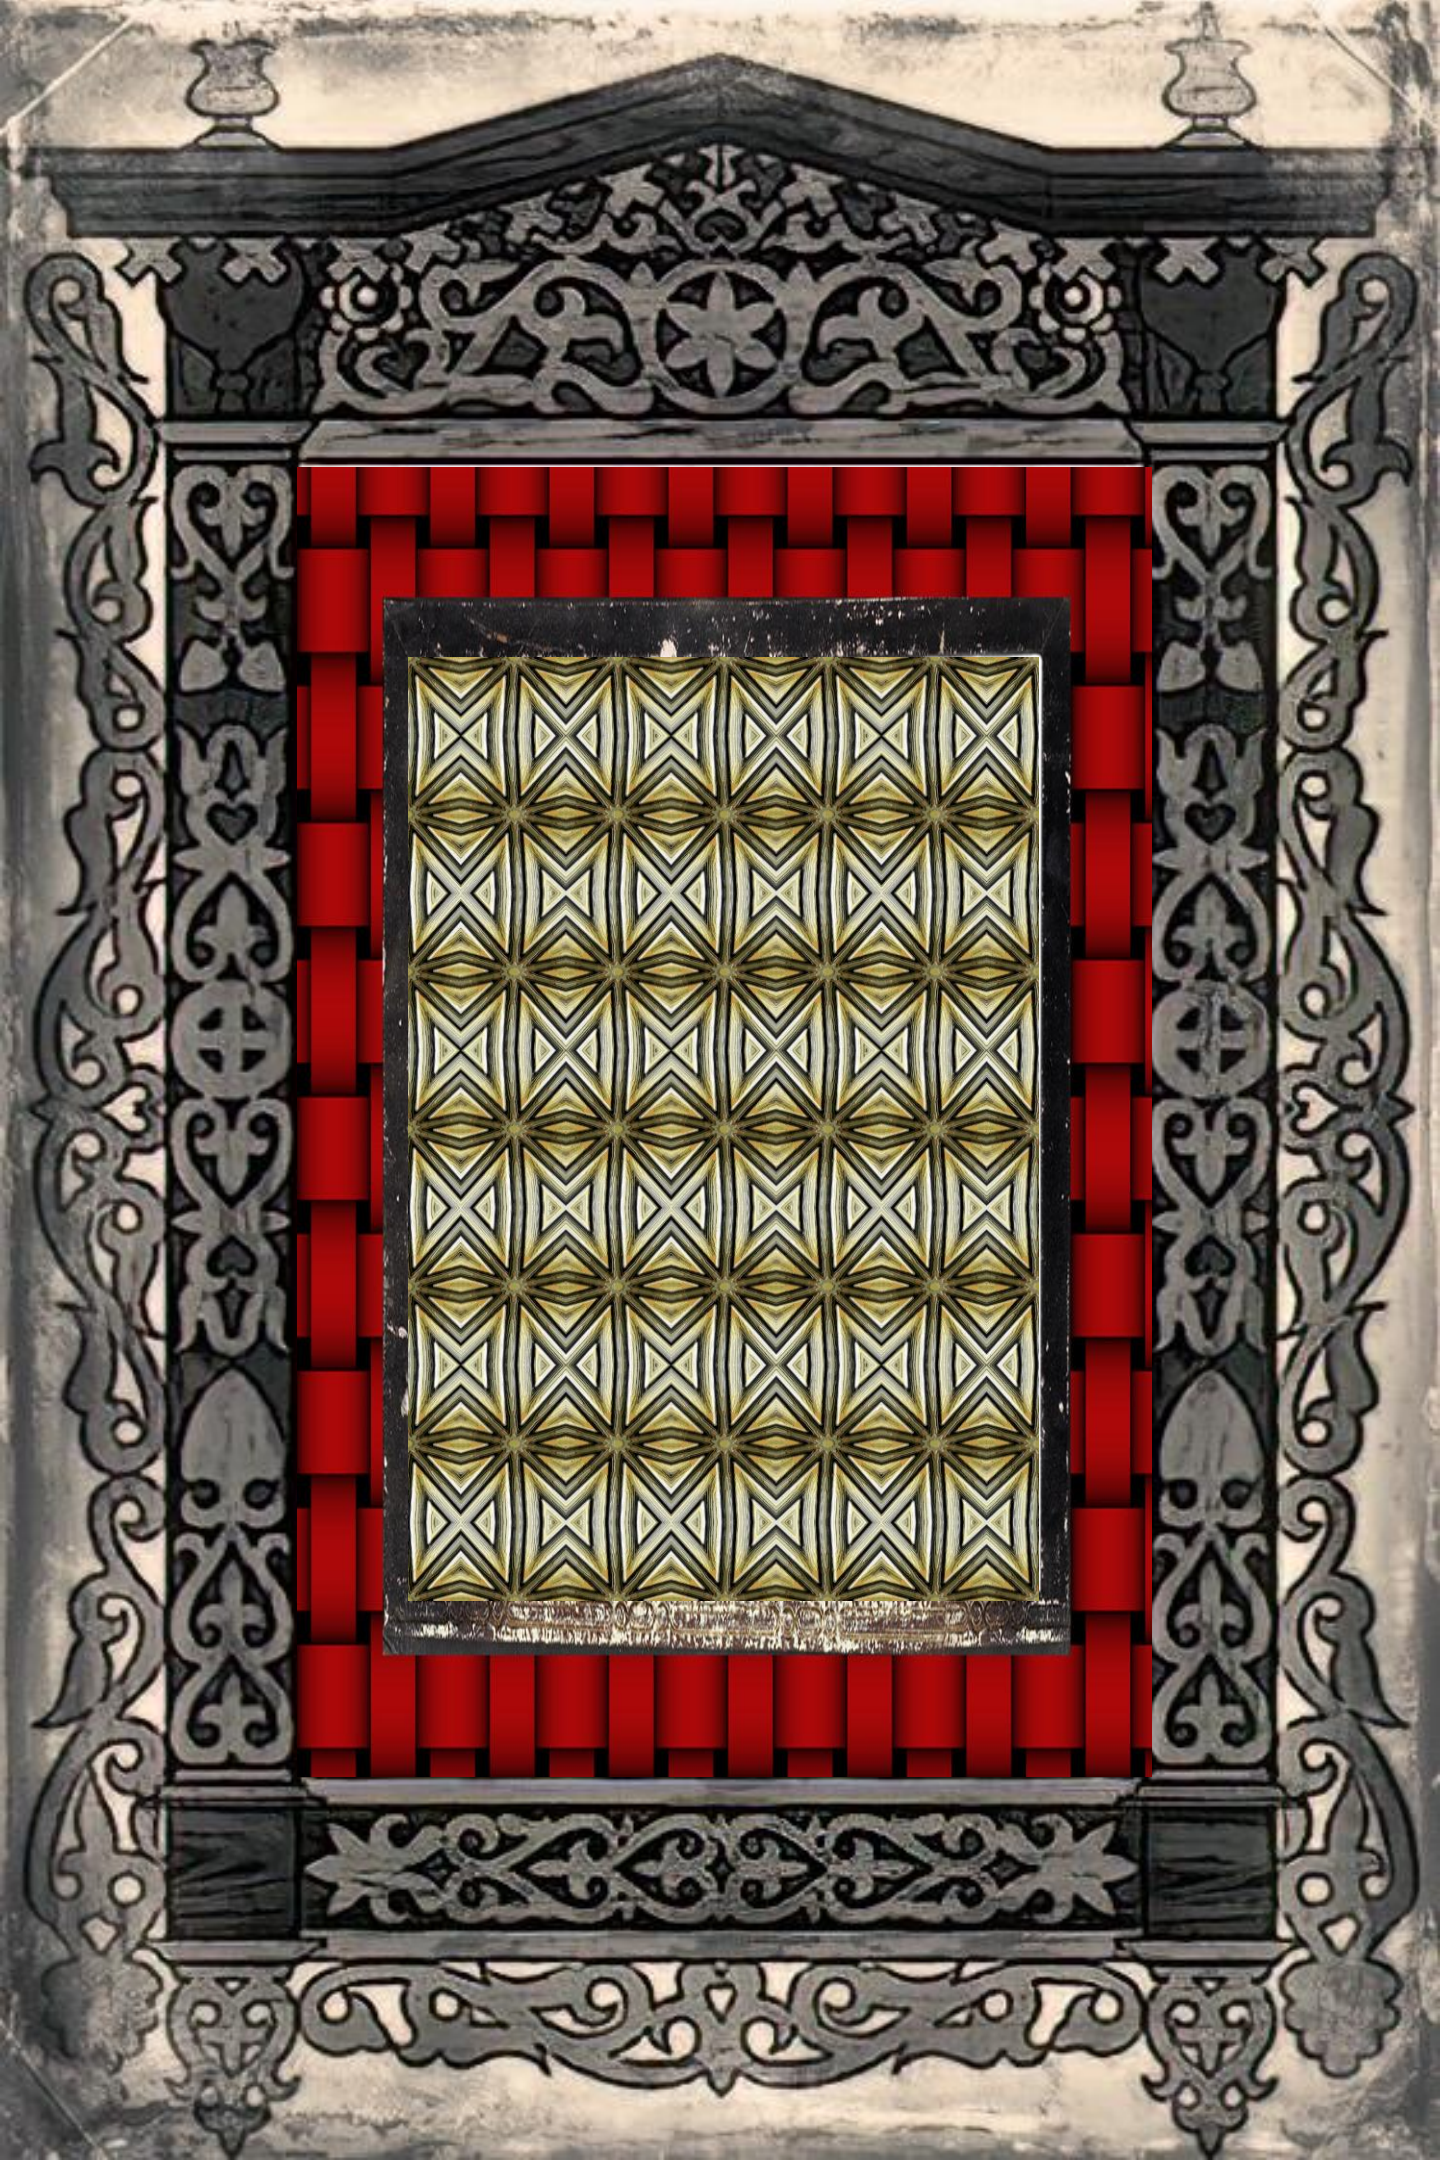
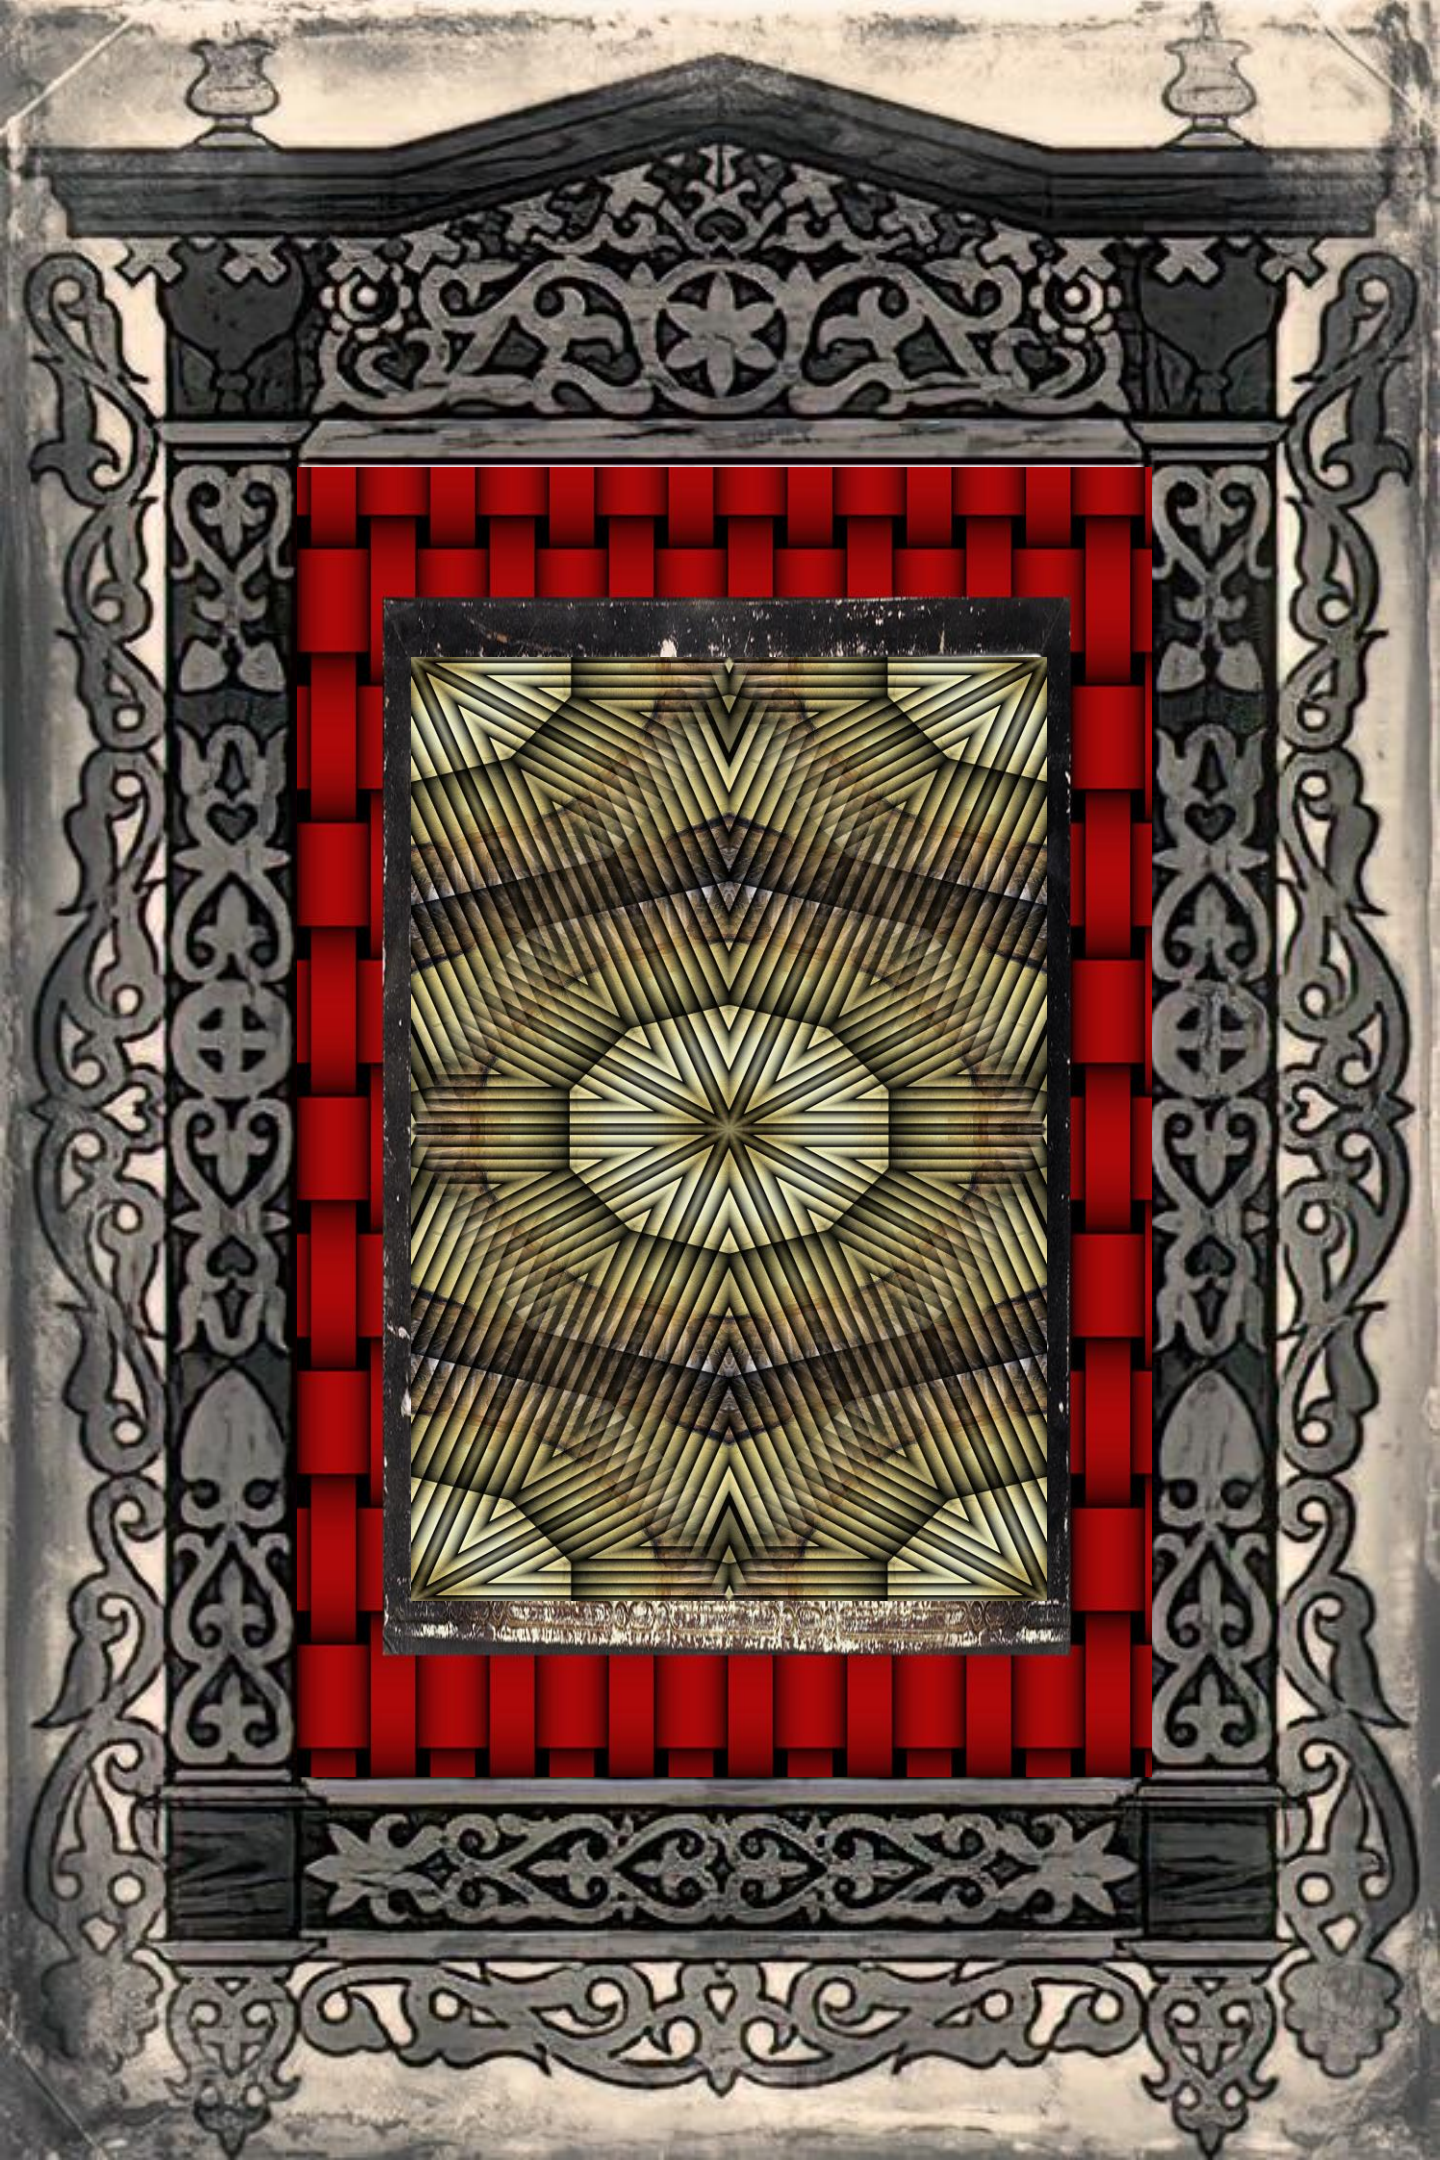
Still, our elders say we must not lose faith as the universe is Beyond our ability to understand how huge it is or the distances that the Star People have to travel. So, we wait!





ANCIENT NARRATIVES

Our council of elders proclaim that not all of the Star People's ancient wisdom has any one particular characteristic of demands that it must never be lost and as such each generation seems to have added while others have subtracted from the logo and in these latter days, we are many times at a lost to gleam the true meaning(s) little-alone the actual intent as each generation seemed bent on spicing up the story to the delight of the crowd that gathers around the camp's evening fires.

ANCIENT NARRATIVES

It is fair to say that our current variation is ever so far removed from the actual events and have been grossly reworked the narrative to create a cult of heroes or to remind it hopefully flawed and difficult for a layman to grasp any true benefit from casual reading.

Many of my generation are bitter and complain that the ancient knowledge(s) is for all practical purposes lost to our generation and this is done to maintain the priestly scholars who we must depend on to pass on the true meanings without fear that their tale is lacking important details or conclusion(s). My studies have led me to believe that our memories

have one major characteristic in that these are not holy relics demanding to be worshiped but are but a smaller stream of learning to assist us in making proper preparation(s) for the return future of the Star People. If these ancient narratives are to be rightly understood, they will be found to contain sublime, deeply penetrating wisdom, but no moral impulses for human action as our priestly scholars have misled us to believe.

It more seems that any impulse drawn from these ancient narratives seem to not really

be essential knowledge needed for the everyday existence of the common man and most surely was never intended to pass as some form of deep, spiritual metasystem that the scholars would demand us to believe.

If these ancient parables are to rightly be understood, one would look for it to contain sublime, deeply penetrating wisdom while initiating us into a feeling of being membered into the whole cosmos. The narrative speaks in riddles of a man (unnamed and unknown) moving about the earth and as he does; he not only feels himself composed of the substances and forces present around him in his earthly life (mineral, plant and animal) but he somehow can sense that the forces operating, for example, in the movements of the stars and the sun were playing into him.

Thus, he feelsas if he is a member of the whole cosmos and (somehow lost in the script of thenarratives) is desert sea...not a mere distraction, for from the mysteries he receives an unspoken directive based on the laws of the stars for his actions and whole conduct of life as had the Star People. This ancient star-wisdom is no way akin to the arithmetical

ANCIENT NARRATIVES
astrology sometimes considered valuable by scholars and the elders of today, but it is a wisdom secretly voiced by the initiates in such a way that impulses for one's individual action and conduct is guided by the ancient mysteries. Once you a reinitiated and taught enlightenment one will start to feel safe and secure within this knowledge, the all-prevailing wisdom of the boundless cosmos which one would understand to be the core of the Initiates of the Mysteries. So, it would seem important that this cosmic reality be imparted as the ancient wisdom seems to address us in the form of directives or in actions from morning till evening on given days of the year. Most modern scholars deeply disagree and believe the narrative's wisdom contained but a single moral impulse from what had been imparted by the Initiates as areligious text and degrades the reality that any impulse was meant to help our people prepare for the day in which the Star People shall return. Inevitably the question arises: "Why is it that this sublime

wisdom, actually does not contain any moral impulse and how did we come to flower in such as the beauty of art and grandeur of philosophy(even if deeply divided and flawed)???"
